Northern Housing Consortium form partnership with Hometrack

Northern Housing Consortium has formed a strategic partnership with Hometrack for the supply of their housing market evaluation system. Delivering immediate access to essential housing market information, the system brings proven efficiency gains which enable informed investment decisions.

John Moralee, Chief Executive of Northern Housing Consortium, commented, "The analysis provided by Hometrack's market evaluation system has the potential to hugely benefit local authorities and RSL's in terms of risk reduction, asset management, and strategic decision making. We see it as a valuable addition to our portfolio of solutions.

"Hometrack's system is already being used by several key players within the housing market and our plan is to jointly develop a 'Lite' version of the product which will be available on the Consortium's website as an additional tool for all our members to use."

The partnership between Northern Housing Consortium and Hometrack will be officially launched at the Consortium's Northern Futures Summit in York on the 28th and 29th November.
