

Northern Housing Consortium's new website will go live on Wednesday 25th October. The site has undergone a complete overhaul and now streamlines information within NHC's key product & service vehicles.

Northern Housing Consortium's Chief Executive, John Moralee, commented, "The website has a vital role to play in providing information and support to our members, which is, after all, what Northern Consortium is all about. We've made major improvements in terms of the ease with which the new site can be navigated, so our members will be able to quickly locate the information they require, whether it's access to our procurement solutions, dates for forthcoming events, or a Consortium briefing on the latest housing legislation. We're absolutely delighted with the new site, and believe our members will soon come to regard it as the key portal to housing market intelligence".
