

Appointment of Chief Executive: Northern Housing Consortium

The Northern Housing Consortium has announced the appointment of JO BOADEN as Chief Executive. Jo joins the Consortium from her role as Director of Information at Business Enterprise North East. She has held previous posts as Chief Executive of the North East Regional Assembly and Director & Chief Officer of the Housing Market Renewal Pathfinder Bridging NewcastleGateshead.

Jo succeeds JOHN MORALEE who is retiring from the Northern Housing Consortium after over 31 years at the helm. HUGH BROADBENT, Chair of the Consortium, said “On behalf of the Board, I wish to pay tribute to John for his visionary leadership and outstanding commitment to the organisation. He has our grateful thanks and best wishes for the future. We are immensely pleased to have Jo on board and look forward to building on our success under her leadership.”

JO BOADEN who joins the Consortium on 4th October, said “I am absolutely delighted to be joining the Northern Housing Consortium as Chief Executive. I am looking forward to leading an organisation with such an excellent and long standing reputation and to working with members and staff to further strengthen the Northern Housing Consortium’s Voice for Housing in the North.”

Notes To Editors:

The Northern Housing Consortium is a not for distributed profit, non political organisation which draws its membership from Local Authorities, Arms Length Management Organisations, Registered Providers and other organisations involved in housing. Its coverage encompasses the North East, North West and Yorkshire & Humberside. Its primary role is to support and represent its members who are responsible for 86% of social housing in the North. With over 30 years of experience and influence, the Northern Housing Consortium has legitimately claimed its role as “the Voice of Housing in the North.”
