

Glynis Osborne, Senior Development Consultant and founder, Thinking Success UK

I have enjoyed many years' experience supporting Northern Housing Consortium with their training and business function needs having previously worked for a large blue chip company for more than 17 years. The most important things for me within any organisation is to give your residents great service by having exceptional leaders, being a great employer and continually striving to be better.

My background is within Psychology and lecturing as I have always been interested in how your mind works especially how we learn and develop as humans. I have studied NLP (Neuro-linguistic Programming) for over 10 years and am a Licensed Trainer and Performance coach.

The services we offer will help you to become more successful, get better results, have more focus, get motivated, and become happier and more fulfilled. If there is a course you like, or you require a specific training need, and want to discuss it more, give me a call personally or send an email to the address shown below. If there is something you think we've missed let us know. It might be planned and just around the corner.
